Robert rushed around and changed his collar several times and also his necktie, and was a great deal more excited than he would have cared to admit. At last he was ready and started to go next door by walking down the street, but on second thought he decided to jump the fence, as in the olden days, for old time s sake. He was met by a young girl dressed in white, who came forward and cordially extended her hand in welcome. At first he hardly could believe his eyes that this was the same girl that he had made mud pies with. But yes. it was Lillian! She had the same dark blue eyes and the same sweet smiling mouth. And on her fourth linger on her left hand she wore the ring with the lone forget-me-not. Lillian had never forgotten Robert, and though she had had many a suitor...
