Ordinarily apothecaries weights and graduated glasses are good enough for clinical purposes. It is claimed that the above solution is an improvement upon those hitherto used, in that: 1st. It is simple and easily prepared: 2nd. It will keep for any length of time: 3rd. It can be conveniently used, and the end of the reaction can be marked with ease and certainty: and 4th. It gives accurate results. I have tested it repeatedly with a standard solution of glucose made by dissolving pure crystalized cane sugar, inverting by boiling with hydrochloric acid, neutralizing and diluting so that 5 c. c., contained one grain of glucose. With this solution the results were absolutely concordant and in accordance with calculation. Dr. Pavy in the article above referred to states that with ammonia the reducing power of the sugar is increased in the ratio of five to six. My experiments with this solution as described do not indicate anything of the kind. Precisely the same equivalent of sugar was required to reduce the solution as if no ammonia had been present. Practice of Medicine. Poisoning By Citrate Of Caffeine.--Dr. Routh Lancet, July, 83), at a meeting of the Medical Society of London, read notes of a case of poisoning by citrate...
