The IDOE was announced on March 8, 1968, when the President of the United States proposed an historic and unprecedented adventure - an international Decade of Ocean Exploration for the 1970 s.In December 1968 the United Nations General Assembly endorsed the concept of an international decade of ocean exploration to be undertaken within the framework of a long-term programme of research and exploration. In late 1969, the Vice President of the United States, in his capacity as Chairman of the National Council on Marine Resources and Engineering Development, formally announced the U.S. intention to contribute to the IDOE and assigned responsibility for planning, managing, and funding the U.S. program to the National Science Foundation (NSF). In charging NSF with this responsibility, the Vice President cited proposed goals relative to mans involvement with the oceans in three broad areas. These were: Determine the quality of the ocean environment through accelerated scientific observations of the oceans natural state, evaluate the impact of mans activity on that environment, and establish a scientific basis for corrective actions necessary to preserve the ocean environment; Provide the scientific basis needed to improve environmental forecasting; and Determine the potential resources of the sea floor. An additional program was added during Fiscal Year 1972 to: Provide the basic scientific knowledge of biological processes necessary for the intelligent utilization of living marine resources. One further objective outlined by the Vice President was...
