

Power Shifts and New Blocs in the Global Trading System

By Sanjaya Baru

Taylor & Francis Ltd. Paperback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, Power Shifts and New Blocs in the Global Trading System, Sanjaya Baru, As economic powers from the developing world, particularly China, have emerged in the past few decades, their weight has altered the balance in the global trading system. This has presented challenges in the World Trade Organisation (WTO), where the Doha Round of multilateral negotiations has dragged on for more than a dozen years. Frustrated by this stalemate, many countries have sought alternatives. Among these are 'mega-regional' trade agreements such as the proposed Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership (TTIP) between the US and EU, and a 16-member Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP). In this volume, leading commentators - including two former heads of the WTO - examine the possible consequences of this shifting trade landscape. Is globalisation in reverse, and have countries been retreating from liberalisation since the world financial crisis of 2008-09? Are the 'mega-regional' deals an existential threat to the WTO regime, or can they be used as building blocks towards wider multilateral agreement on a broad range of issues, from industrial standards to intellectual property rights. And what does it all mean for the balance of geopolitical power...

READ ONLINE
[4.01 MB]

Reviews

This book may be really worth a read through, and far better than other. it was actually writtern extremely completely and valuable. I am just very easily will get a satisfaction of looking at a published ebook.

-- Lillie Toy

It is easy in read through easier to fully grasp. it had been writtern very completely and useful. I am pleased to let you know that here is the greatest book we have read during my personal life and could be he very best book for possibly.

-- Miss Marge Jerde